

HEALTH CARE IN YOUR FUTURE SUMMIT

NOVEMBER 30, 2022
7:30-11:30 AM

The Ranch - Loveland, CO

Presented by  NORTHERN COLORADO
HEALTH SECTOR PARTNERSHIP

Welcome to the 2022 Health Summit!

We're glad you're here and joining the conversation.

The Northern Colorado Health Sector Partnership has been a long-time supporter and sponsor of the Health Care in Your Future Summit. Previously hosted by the Fort Collins Area Chamber of Commerce, this event will now be under the leadership of the Health Sector Partnership.

Health Sector Partnership Mission: Bring together key stakeholders to promote and improve health within our communities. We will collaborate across disciplines, organizations, and communities to seize opportunities, solve problems and celebrate successes in the region.

Our goal for the Health Care in Your Future Summit is to bring relevant and timely information about healthcare and behavioral health to the greater Northern Colorado healthcare, business and citizen communities.

Shawna Hochnadel, MSN, RN, RN-BC, CNOR

Shawna has over 20 years of clinical experience, including the past 9 years in the Informatics specialty at Banner Health. Prior to working in Informatics, Shawna was a nursing leader with preoperative, obstetric, invasive procedure and clinical laboratory experience for rural and large health systems. Shawna's goal is to improve the quality of patient care and optimize electronic health information management and communication for patients on a system level. She works in partnership with the multidisciplinary healthcare team at all levels including clinicians and technical staff. As a Nursing Informatics Program Director at Banner Health, she collaborates on strategic initiative development as well as optimization and integration of technology supporting patients and clinicians across the continuum of care. Shawna has a Masters degree in Health Systems Leadership from Gonzaga University and a Bachelor's degree in Nursing from Mesa State University. Shawna is board a certified informatics and operating room nurse. In her free time, Shawna enjoys hiking in Rocky Mountain National Park and Indian Peaks Wilderness as much as possible. When not on the trail she can be found golfing or cooking up meals for family and friends.

Nikki Caputo

Nicole Caputo is UCHHealth's Senior Director of Experience and Innovation. She is responsible for leading problem solving and technology strategy by creating human-centered, digital experiences that touch both patients and employees in a way that uniquely connects them. She also serves as a liaison to the UCHHealth CARE Innovation Center as a subject matter expert for end user experience.

The Future of Healthcare Workforce / Building the Pipeline

How to engage your future workforce early and ensure you have the workers you need.

Stefanie Merrell

Stefanie Merrell is the K-12 Work-Based Learning Business Liaison for the region, a new position that launched in July 2022. This position is funded through a Larimer County Workforce Innovation Grant, received by the Fort Collins Area Chamber of Commerce. Stefanie works alongside Poudre, Thompson, Estes Park School Districts, and Colorado Early College Fort Collins to connect our local businesses to K-12 students for work-based learning experiences. Previous to this role, Stefanie worked in long-term care for over 20 years. She herself was an intern and throughout her career has supported many K-12 and college students in job shadows, internships, apprenticeships, and employment. She is a mother of two middle-school aged children in Poudre School District.

Andy Yost

Andy Yost is the Work-based Learning Navigator for Employment Services of Weld County. He works to connect businesses and public partners in Northern Colorado. Andy assists businesses with developing internships and apprenticeship programs that can access Workforce Center grant funding and provides links to local talent pools to fill employment needs. Prior to joining Employment Services of Weld County, he was an instructor at Roosevelt High School for 26 years teaching business courses and concurrent enrollment courses through Aims Community College.

David Cessna B.A., M.Ed.

David Cessna has devoted his career to managing programs and assisting individuals with workforce and career development in higher education, secondary education, non-profit organizations, and counties. Groups with which he has worked include college students, high school students, the unemployed, not-workforce-ready individuals on public assistance, older adults, disabled farmers and ranchers, and those exiting the criminal justice system. As a former CAHEC staff member, he worked in youth pipeline programs promoting healthcare careers throughout northeastern Colorado.

Nick Peterson

Prior to his current role with the Poudre School District, Nick Peterson was a high school counselor at Fossil Ridge High School, PSD's Futures Lab Program, and Cherry Creek High School. He got his start in education as a band director at Loveland High School and Lucille Erwin Middle School. Nick continues to bring his passion for supporting students and helping them find their path in life to the work he does now- developing opportunities, systems, and resources that benefit students in collaboration with community and business partners. Outside of work, Nick is a musician in the Fort Collins Wind Symphony, part-time marching band show designer, and marching band judge. He enjoys cycling, travel, spicy food, travel, warm weather, news, technology, and solving real problems.

Are we there yet?? COVID Workforce and crisis management adjustments

The COVID 19 pandemic caused many shifts to systems, processes, and decision making.

Caitlin McKennie

Caitlin McKennie is the talent pipeline economist for the Colorado Workforce Development Council Office and the Colorado Department of Higher Education. In this shared-agency position, Caitlin's role is motivated by data creation and collection as an analytical tool for informed decision-making. She supports the CWDC's efforts to develop and sustain an industry-led talent development network through her empirical research and analyses centered on Colorado's workforce from both demand and supply perspectives. Caitlin has been with the State of Colorado since 2017 and brings extensive experience in public policy and economics to this role in a manner that is outcome-focused and equity-driven. She holds an M.A. in applied economics from the University of Colorado, Denver, and an M.S. in mineral and energy economics from the Colorado School of Mines. Come June 2022, Caitlin will have (finally) attained her Ph.D. in economics after many years of diligent research surrounding sustainability, energy consumption, household finances, and the general welfare of populations at state and local levels.

Thomas Hartman

As a Senior Consultant, Thomas is the senior authority for the development and deployment of career pathways in in-demand industries. Additionally, Thomas works as a senior authority with other agencies and external partners to create and manage project plans for CWDC initiatives and Career Pathways Tools and Resources. Thomas represents CWDC in stakeholder meetings relevant to career pathway development, equity, or supply-side strategies including, the facilitation of the Education and Training Steering Committee and its subcommittees. Thomas also serves as a liaison between CWDC and assigned local Workforce Development Boards. Thomas is passionate about the democratization of education and training opportunities for all Coloradans. Before joining the CWDC in 2016, Thomas served as a college & university administrator, instructor, and curriculum designer. Thomas holds a Ph.D. in Education from the University of Northern Colorado and is a Certified Project Management Professional. In his free time, Thomas enjoys hiking, snow-shoeing, & cooking for family and friends.

Dr. Angela Mills

Angela M. Mills, MD is Chief Medical Officer at North Colorado Medical Center. She is board certified in Internal Medicine. She has been with Banner Health for 11 years, starting her journey as a Hospitalist Medicine Physician and then transitioned to administration. She attended undergraduate education at the University of Wisconsin--Madison, then medical school at Loyola Stritch School of Medicine, and completed Internal Medicine Residency at Creighton University Medical Center.

Supporting Employee Behavioral Health

Your employees' behavioral health is just as important as their physical health

Kim Collins

Kim Collins has worked in behavioral health for more than 15 years and has been with North Range for 8 years. Most recently, she served as North Range's Chief Clinical Officer where she provided organization-wide leadership for clinical operations to support the agency's strategic vision and plan. Before that, Collins was the Administrative Director of North Range's Youth and Family programs and the Crisis Teams. Prior to joining the North Range team, Collins was the Director of Clinical Programs at Diversus Health (formerly Aspen Pointe) and the Regional Operations Director at Centennial Mental Health. She holds a Bachelor of Science in Human Development and Family Relations with a minor in Social Work; Masters of Science in Education focused on Community Counseling; and is a Licensed Professional Counselor (LPC) in Colorado.

Wade Nyhuis

Wade has lived in the Denver area for the last two years. He has a BA in Communications from Northwestern College in Iowa. For the last year and a half Wade has worked at Rocky Mountain Crisis Partners where Lifeline and Colorado Crisis Line is answered. He started out as a Crisis Specialist and within 8 months he moved into the supervisor role where he now directly supports the crisis specialists.

Caroline Bunn MA, LPC

Caroline Bunn serves as a local Community Engagement Manager for Unite Us, a nationwide technology platform that improves social determinants of health by connecting health care and social care. A natural connector of people and ideas, she is also a Licensed Professional Counselor. Prior to moving to the world of outreach, she provided therapy for children and families recovering from trauma and held counseling roles within schools and healthcare settings. She lives in Fort Collins with her spouse, their amazing son, and two big dogs.

"The doctor will see you now" - Conversations with primary care providers

Learn how our local primary care partners navigated and pivoted during COVID

Craig Luzinski DSL, FACHE

Professionally, Craig currently serves as the Colorado Market President for Village Medical. As Market President, he is responsible for market growth and the actualization of VillageMDs mission, working with our partners to help patients achieve greater health by delivering the most effective, accessible, and efficient healthcare in the world. Craig served as the CEO of Associates in Family Medicine and led the process of AFM being acquired by VillageMD earlier this year. Prior to joining AFM, Craig held executive-level positions at Poudre Valley Hospital,

Cheyenne Region Medical Center, and Longmont United Hospital. Academically, Craig received a Bachelor of Science degree in Nursing from the University of Minnesota; a Master of Science in Nursing Administration from Regis University; and a Doctorate of Strategic Leadership from Regent University. Personally, Craig and his wife, Cyndy, live in Windsor. He has four grown children and four grandchildren

Dr. Jennifer McCabe Lentz

Dr. Jennifer McCabe Lentz has been practicing family medicine for over 20 years. Dr. Lentz completed her Doctor of Medicine (MD) degree from the University of Colorado School of Medicine in 2001 and the Fort Collins Family Medicine Residency in 2004. She received a Family Medicine Certification (FMC) from the American Board of Family Medicine in 2004. She then spent 4 years practicing family medicine in rural Washington before coming home to Fort Collins, in Northern Colorado. She opened Direct Family Care of Northern Colorado (DFC) in January 2018. In her years practicing family medicine, Dr. Lentz realized that combining lifestyle changes with medication resulted in more successful long-term results. Her approach focuses on dedicated personalized counseling on lifestyle habits and food changes. Dr. Lentz is passionate about her patients. She strives to build a true doctor-patient relationship with each of her clients and work in partnership with them to live a healthier life through good nutrition. She chose to become a direct primary care provider because it allows her to provide excellent care and removes the obstacles and hassles of the insurance-based American healthcare system.

Lane Mattox, MBA

Family Physicians of Greeley is an independent primary care group caring for Northern Colorado since 1972 with locations in Greeley and Johnstown. Services provided by 30 clinicians include Family Medicine, Adult and Senior care, Pediatrics, Women's Care, Colonoscopy, and Diabetic Retinopathy just to name a few. Lane is the Quality and System Manager having served on the management team for 15 years. Lane oversees the electronic medical record, payer contracts and quality improvement. Lane has a Bachelor's degree in Economics and Business from Westmont College and a Master of Business Administration from the University of Colorado, Denver.
